Richard Morris Hunt design "the very best living accommodations that money could buy". The result by Hunt was the neo-classical Marble House inspired by the Petit Trianon at Versailles in France. The cost was $11,000,000 and Italian stonecutters were imported to do much of the work over the three years. The marble used was imported from Europe to a wharf and warehouse in Newport harbor where the stonecutters prepared it for installation on the site on Bellevue Avenue high on the cliff overlooking the Atlantic.

Marble House was meant to dazzle. When complete it was the most ornate and expensive summer home. The interior marble alone was valued at $7,000,000. Vanderbilt presented it to his wife Alva on her 39th birthday. Vanderbilt was an avid yachtsman and sponsored the successful defense of the America's Cup in 1896. It was the first of a long string of successful defenses until Australia's victory in Newport in 1983.

This home's white marble exterior is just a prelude to its richly colored and decorated interior. The heavy glass weigh one and one half tons and turn on pivots set into the frame because they are too heavy for hinges. The motif for the grill was Vanderbilt's favorite - the sunburst mask of Apollo together with plaques with the W.V. monogram.

In the "Gilded Age" of those days the house was a sensation and is no less today. The Vanderbilts spent a great deal of time traveling and Marble House was only one of their showpiece residences. They stayed in Newport at this home only six or seven weeks of the year and when they came they brought with them a regular staff of 36; 23 were indoor help and 13 people to maintain the grounds. For special events like balls and dinner parties extra help was brought in and dressed in the Vanderbilt livery of maroon. World War I

Hickey wrote that "It is my understanding there are two issues of concern to the town and residents of the area. The first of which is the advisability of using this site at Pine Island Pond as an oyster propagation and transplant area and secondly, the impact of beaching and mooring small boats at the site. Based on our observations of the site and this year's transplant of contaminated oysters from Eel Pond, it was noted survivability of the transplanted oysters was nearly 100 percent, and by the time of our visit, they showed very good growth as exhibited by their large 'feather edge'."

In addition, Hickey wrote, "Pine Island Pond has historically contained a small population of naturally occurring oysters. This was evidenced by the fact that in the pond itself we found oysters (not transplanted) attached to the rock 'islands' and to shells around the rocks. Also, water temperature and salinity, within the pond and the channel leading into it (where the transplanted oysters are located) are well within the range tolerated by oysters."

Hickey's letter noted an associated concern expressed by some fish population with another shell-fish species."

Regarding the question of the boats, Hickey wrote that it is the feeling of the Division that continued beaching of small boats as is done presently to the east of Creek Road is not detrimental to the soft-shell clam population in the area. "Our observations did not indicate the presence of a significant clam population at the site." It was noted, however, that two of the boats contained water and a gasoline can and a container of outboard motor oil were floating around in one boat. Owners would be encouraged to remove such items in order to prevent possible spilling of fuel and oil into the adjacent tidal waters.

The state biologist also noted that two boat moorings (as agreed upon on-site) should be moved farther down due to evidence that oysters were being hit by propellers at lower tidal stages. This was evidenced by distinctly nicked and chipped oyster shells. If not terribly inconvenient to do so, this measure would minimize damage to oysters from boats.

Selectmen Chairman John DeCosta noted Rebecca McCullough, president of the Crescent Beach Association, will be notified of the state's findings. Mrs. McCullough attended a Selectmen's meeting this summer with Shellfish Constable Nunes concerning the boats being moored in shellfish beds. DeCosta said the Beach Association will be asked to make the adjustments next summer.

Selectmen went into executive session with Police Chief James F. Moran to discuss disciplinary action against a town employee.

Following the meeting Chairman DeCosta said, "Disciplinary action was taken on a police officer for an event that took place over the past weekend (November 8/9). The officer has the right to an appeal within 15

Veterans' Day Parade Rained Out

by Virginia Arral

After three months of planning for the November 11th Veterans' Day Parade, the event had to be cancelled. Scheduled to be held in Marion this year, this was the 27th year of the Tri-Town Veterans' Day parades joining the towns of Marion, Mattapoisett and Wareham.

Mattapoisett Selectmen Chairman and a member of the parade committee on behalf of Florence Eastman Post 280, American Legion, John DeCosta said, "We, of the Legion and V.F.W. groups, began Armistice Day to honor World War I veterans and deceased servicemen; then it was changed to include World War II servicemen; now the day includes all veterans. To us it is a sacred day to honor all living veterans and those buried in overseas cemeteries and in the United States cemeteries. One small way we can honor them is to hold parades and ceremonies in our towns.

"The three months of planning of Wareham, Marion and Mattapoisett groups and the floats created to participate in the parade made the final decision to cancel the parade a sad occasion," said DeCosta.

"On behalf of the Wareham American Legion, Post 220; the Marion Benjamin Cushing VFW Post 2425, and

A.F.S. Exchange

Fourteen A.F. S. Club members from Williamsburg, VA recently visited Old Rochester Regional High School as part of its short-term exchange program. Hosted by families of Old Rochester A.F.S. Club members, guests and their chaperones visited classes at the high school for two days, visited the Mayflower and Plimoth Plantation, toured Boston, danced at the Car Palace and attended a potluck supper given in their honor. At this event Old Rochester's foreign exchange students and those from the Williamsburg chapter spoke about their countries and their impressions of the United States.

proud to present East Bridgewater's Children's Theatre Production of "The Wizard of Oz", directed by TOP's Artistic director, Peg Holzemer, on November 22nd and 23rd at 1:30 p.m. at the Grange Hall, Route 105, North Main Street in Middleboro.

L. Frank Baum's classic story, "The Wizard of Oz", contains all the loving ingredients for popular family audience appeal; an engaging plot, delightful characters, breath-taking action and uproarious comedy.

Dorothy's familiar journey from Kansas to Oz is highlighted by the meeting of all the beloved characters: The Munchkins, Glenda the Good Witch, The Wicked Witch, The Scarecrow, The Cowardly Lion, and The Tin Man.

In their travels, the four delightful searchers for The Wizard are guided along a path that is less frightening than some of the earlier journeys, and through their developing relationships, they each become a little kinder, a little more human and a lot more loving toward each other.

Come and join the experience of live theatre, where children perform for children (of all ages).

Young and old alike are fascinated by the RETURN OF THE DINOSAURS because the great creatures move, make sounds and resemble the real thing right down to their reptile-like skin.

For youngsters the fun begins when they walk into the museum and find giant yellow dinosaur tracks that they can follow to the exhibition. After a walk through the exhibit, the Dinosaurs Activities Den awaits them with games of discovery that make the prehistoric giants real for children.

At the Dinosaur Weigh-In they find out that a surprising number of dinosaurs were small even by human standards. They can walk through 4 billion years of history to learn, among other things, that the only living creatures on the earth for 3 billion years were one-celled.

There's the chance to play paleontologist and reconstruct the bones from a dinosaur dig.

To make dinosaurs come to life in 1986, American terms, there's a contest to guess how many McD.L.T.'s a T-Rex would have devoured in a day. And those who come close may win one QUESTION: WHY SHOULD ATHLETES HAVE CHIROPRACTIC SPINAL MANIPULATION?

ANSWER: Because it can help their performance.

Many amateur and professional athletes are sidelined with injuries that could be avoided. Others sit it out on the bench because their injury just doesn't seem to respond to ordinary treatment. Still others are playing, but at less than their peak efficiency simply because their structural system is not in balance.

Progressive coaches and trainers are realizing that pain-killing drugs are not the answer.

Drugs and medications merely cover up the symptom, deceive the player into making the injury more serious.

Probably more than any other health profession, chiropractic's approach to health closely relates to the needs of the sports participant. Most sports involve body contact, leverage, fast starts and stops, and positioning that places an unusual strain on the back and structural system. Doctors of chiropractic consider the human as an integrated being, giving special attention to spinal mechanics and neurological, muscular and vascular relationships. Chiropractic is a natural health care method that stresses the importance of keeping all the systems of the body functioning efficiently, so the player enjoys peak performance, a minimum injury risk and fast recuperative powers.

Here's what you can do:

- Make certain that your athletes are properly prepared for the sport. Preventive care dictates the wisdom of visiting a doctor of chiropractic for a spinal examination on a regular basis. If the diagnosis shows anything not within the scope of chiropractic treatment, the conscientious doctor of chiropractic will refer the athlete to one of the other health specialties.

- Make certain that a doctor of chiropractic is a member of your health team. Many of the high-performing professional and amateur teams have retained doctors of chiropractic as their team physicians.

- Minimize the use of drugs and medications and utilize natural health methods.

treated sooner, and generally costs less than inpatient care.

While outpatient care is easier on your budget, one visit still costs an average of $105. Private insurance usually covers this cost. But if you're one of this country's 30 million Medicare recipients, you are required to meet certain deductibles and co-payments for outpatient services.

Medicare has two parts, A and B. Part A covers inpatient hospital care, minus a $492 deductible per benefit period. Part B can cover 80 percent of most outpatient care services; however, you are required to pay the remaining 20 percent plus a $75. annual deduction and a $15.50 monthly payment.

Tobey Hospital offers the following guidelines to use in reviewing supplemental coverage policies:

*Do not be misled by the statement "no medical examination required". Certain health conditions might not be covered under this policy.

*Do not pay supplemental insurance premiums in cash. Pay by check or money order. Document all payments and keep files of forms and policies.

*A single, comprehensive policy is better than several policies that

*The government does not sponsor or endorse any type of supplemental insurance. It is illegal for advertising or insurance agents to make that claim.

*Beware of policies that let the company refuse to renew your policy on an individual basis.

*Do not let a short-term enrollment period pressure you into a decision. Allow time to consider your options.

If you suffer from a chronic condition, these costs can add up. For example, the annual cost of outpatient rheumatoid arthritis treatment can be as much as $1,000. This comes to $461 in out-of-pocket expenses a year.

As a result, it is estimated that senior citizens purchase up to $3 billion in supplemental insurance to cover the deductibles, co-pay-

The collection is on loan from the Gulbenkian Foundation of Lisbon and features silk screen prints, aquatint, lithography, and engravings.

"This opportunity will expose a new facet of Portuguese culture to the many Portuguese Americans in this area," said Ms. Wilner. "But all nationalities will gain a respect and love for the work of the featured artists."

"The exhibit is part of the ongoing connection of the BCC art department with Portugal that began with the artist-in-residence program featuring Nuno Baretto this fall. Baretto shared his many talents with the faculty and staff of BCC and Swain School of Design. As a result of Wilner's and Baretto's efforts, a traveling print exhibit of the work of American students will be shown in Portugal. Baretto is one of the many artists represented in the Gulbenkian exhibit.

day - Friday, 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Circulated by the Pratt Institute Gallery, the exhibition features over 300 print ads, magazine covers and bus posters designed by George Lois.

Eva Roberts, Chairman of Swain's Graphic Design Department, notes, "We are especially excited about the George Lois Show because it will appeal to viewers beyond the academic design community. Lois' career spanned over thirty years from 1950 to 1985 and he created print and television campaigns that have become classics. His work has great wit and humor. It will be an entertaining, fun exhibition to visit even if you're not interested in the more technical aspects of design."

George Lois attended the Pratt Institute in New York City and left before graduation to begin a dazzling career as one of the country's brightest art directors and designers. In 1982 Pratt awarded him a Doctor of Fine Arts degree. Eleanor Moretta, Director of Exhibition at Pratt, wrote of George Lois' work, "The most surprising of Lois' juxtapositions are those involving well-known people, both famous and infamous. His success leaves the ob-le the district designation process, part of Mayor John K. Bullard's revitalization plan for downtown New Bedford.

Ms. Hennessy is preparing a Preliminary Report which must be approved by the New Bedford Historical Commission and forwarded to the Massachusetts Historical Commission for acceptance. The Report will include the documentation of the historic and architectural character of the District, as well as the elements of building exteriors subject to review. The proposed new boundaries, to be based on concentrations of buildings with significant historic and architectural features, will be roughly Elm Street on the north, to County Street on the west, to Walnut Street on the south, and the Waterfront on the east.

Ms. Hennessy will also assist the New Bedford Historical Commission in preparing informational materials about the district and its effects for downtown property owners and tenants. Further, Ms. Hennessy is drafting design guidelines for use Commander John Charles Roach. The exhibit, which opens November 19th, features 66 pen and ink drawings and two oil paintings of "Old Ironsides" in a fascinating tribute to the Navy's oldest and most famous fighting ship.

Commander Roach's pictorial essay gives a panoramic history of life and work aboard USS Constitution. His artwork graphically depicts the building and inner workings of the ship, and the day-to-day life of the men who sailed on the world's oldest fully commissioned warship.

Commander John Charles Roach was born in Newport News, Virginia, where his intense interest in ships and naval architecture was fostered by his father, a naval architect. He received his formal education at l'Ecole Nationale Superieure des Beaux Arts in Paris, before returning to the U.S. and enlisting in the Navy. His precise technical and artistic skills catapulted him to the position of official Navy artist, where, among other official assignments, he traveled to Vietnam to hymn, at a workshop November 21st from 8 to 10 p.m. in the Campus Center cafeteria of Southeastern Massachusetts University. A donation of $1. is requested and parking lot 6 should be used.

Jim and Cindy Bean of Mattapoisett, performers at SMU's annual Eisteddfod folk festival, will teach the workshop.

Eisteddfod Director Jean Saltzman explains sacred harp singing as a four-part acappella harmony which is also called "shaped note singing". She said it originated in 18th Century Congregational Churches with a view to including the entire congregation - singers and non-singers - in the hymns.

Participants in the workshop will learn these old folk hymns which have been passed down through generations in a combination of written and oral forms, Mrs. Saltzman said.

For further information call the Eisteddfod office at 999-8166.

sociate's degree or a certificate in Paralegal Studies, school officials announced. Classes begin on January 19th and are held in the Blue House at New Bedford High School, 230 Hathaway Boulevard. The administration office is located at 995 Rockdale Avenue.

Newbury's paralegal program, developed in accordance with guidelines set forth by the American Bar Association, is designed to provide students with an in-depth understanding of the concepts of the American legal system, in conjunction with specific skills in paralegal procedure. Newbury's training prepares the student to assist attorneys in legal research and in the delivery of professional services.

Both the one-year certificate program as well as the two-year degree program provide a variety of electives which will allow the student to specialize in areas such as real estate or corporate law after completing the core courses. Included on the January schedule are Introduction to the Paralegal Profession, American Legal Systems, Litigation, Estates, Trusts and Wills, and Utilization of Legal Materials.

More information about the courses, as well as about deferred tuition and financial aid, may be had by calling 996-3138. Career counseling and placement testing are also available.

Newbury College is accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges and offers over 30 programs of study in many locations

PHYSICAL THERAPY DEGREE

A two-year program leading to an associate's degree as a Physical Therapist's Assistant is being offered at the New Bedford Campus of Newbury College, school officials announced. The general education requirements will be taught at Newbury's New Bedford High School location, while the laboratory courses will be taught at St. Luke's Hospital, Page Street, New Bedford, by Physical Therapy professionals.

This evening program, which was introduced in September, is designed to meet the growing community need for trained assistants to work with the registered physical therapists in fields such as sports medicine, neurology, pediatrics, and geriatrics.

Registration for classes, which begin on January 19th, is now being held at Newbury's administration office, 995 Rockdale Avenue. Career and financial aid counseling is also available. For more information call 996-3138.

A Festival of Homes

"CHRISTMAS IN OLD NEW BEDFORD"

The halls of New Bedford's most beautiful homes will be open to the public when The New Bedford Glass Museum celebrates "Christmas in Old New Bedford: A Festival of Homes" on Sunday, December 21st, from 3 until 7 o'clock.

The eight homes in the "Festival" are located in New Bedford's historic west side, and represent the range of sumptuous architecture Melville described as "the city of palaces". Each home offers Christmas in the style of their current owners: an 1895 Georgian Revival mansion transformed into a black and white Christmas fantasy; a Gothic Revival Cottage in nostalgic Victorian greenery; an 1898 Queen Anne mahogany interior glowing with candlelit crystal; an 1869 barn converted to a contemporary residence for its first Christmas; a 1906 Jacobean lodge ornamented as a "bejewelled Christmas"; an Italianate mansion decorated by a contemporary artist, etc.

The December 21 "Festival of Homes" is part of The New Bedford Glass Museum's celebration, "Christmas in Old New Bedford". From November 28

ST. JUDE'S NOVENA
May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, help of the hopeless, pray for us.
Say this prayer 9 times a day. By the 8th day your prayer will be answered. Say it for 9 days. It has never been known to fail. Publication must be promised. Thank you St. Jude.

- 21 NORTH STREET, MATTAPOISETT

through January 4, the Glass Museum houses three floors of decorated period rooms, concerts, story hours, and other events.

Out-of-town visitors will enjoy a nostalgic Christmas weekend by combining "The Festival of Homes" with a seat for "The Nutcracker Ballet", performed by the Festival Ballet of Rhode Island on stage at New Bedford's Zeiterion Theatre, restored to its 1920's splendor. To complete the weekend, visitors may reserve bed and breakfast in an historic New Bedford home.

Tickets for "Christmas in Old New Bedford: A Festival of Homes" are available at three locations throughout greater New Bedford, by telephone or by mail. Credit card holders may call 994-0115 to purchase tickets. Mail orders will be filled through the Glass Museum, 50 North Second Street, New Bedford, MA. 02740. Tickets may be purchased in person at the Glass Museum through December 21, or at Grand Illusion Florist, or Centre Jewelers. For information on accommodations please contact the Museum.

Cost is $10. for adults, $8. for seniors, and $5. for children under 14. All tickets are non-refundable.

"Christmas in Old New Bedford" is sponsored by the New Bedford Five
